Where and when exactly did you capture this? I'd like to have a look at the exact weather conditions.

It was captured near my home approximately 1 to 2 km away in Nepal, I took this video on April...weather in April here is cool...not much cold not much hot...just perfect weather to fly. What do you think about that object?

The Nepal between India and Tibet? Cool, I have not seen any footage of these objects from that area. Here is a playlist of other footage (30+ cases) of these white things all over the world: <http://bit.ly/2G2PODP>. the only mundane explanations are insects close to the lens or hailstone. Both explanations do not work for many of the cases imo. Your video is very interesting, because the object is very close in a couple of frames. I am a Ph.D. student and I am planning to make a compiled report and let have meteorologists, aerial engineers and others have a look for assessment.

Do you know the exact time of the footage (date and hour from e.g. the meta data of the file)? Could you point to the exact location, e.g. via google maps <http://bit.ly/2FYgemU> (just zoom in close and copy/paste the link)? It would help me to get this detailed information because then I could add precise satellite data of the weather to it to make a better estimate how likely it could be a hailstone.

I don't have an active FB account (I am in Germany and FB is not that widely used here than in other countries). Would email work for you, too? You can reach me via [homeruniverse\[at\]gmail\[dot\]com](mailto:homeruniverse[at]gmail[dot]com). I can send you a link to my personal university webpage here, too. (If you want to stay anonymous, you can use an anonymous email; that works fine for me too)
